Partnership and Exhibitor Opportunities

Dear Lymphedema Community Supporters

The Canadian Lymphedema Framework (CLF) and the Lymphedema Association of Québec (LAQ) warmly invite you to the 2017 national lymphedema conference, to be held in Montreal, Quebec from October 27-28, 2017. Our venue is the Omni Mont-Royal Hotel, conveniently located in downtown Montreal. Join us in this historical city, celebrating its 375th anniversary in 2017, as we will share stimulating ideas, new research and innovative solutions to the many issues faced by people who live with lymphedema as well as the health professionals who provide their care.

Lymphedema affects many people of all ages. Yet this condition remains under-recognized, under-treated and under-funded. Events to raise awareness and education for people living with lymphedema and the health professionals who treat them are essential to moving us closer to the advancement of lymphedema care in Canada – while keeping the patient at the heart of everything we do.

There are many sponsorship and exhibitor opportunities available and your support is vital to the success of this first national bilingual lymphedema conference. It is an excellent opportunity to network with key lymphedema professionals, opinion leaders and decision makers, demonstrate your commitment to the advancement of lymphedema care in Canada and maintain a high profile among delegates before, during and after the conference.

Your 2017 National Conference Co-Hosts:

Anna Kennedy, Executive Director
Canadian Lymphedema Framework

Rachel Pritzker, President
Lymphedema Association of Québec

Agenda

This collaborative event will bring together an audience of health professionals, researchers, patients and community advocates from Quebec, Canada and worldwide leaders to learn from experts in lymphedema research, diagnosis, treatment and self-care.

The Scientific Committee is planning a thought provoking and nationally relevant conference agenda with both interactive and open discussion sessions to encourage collaboration within the lymphedema community, to foster innovation and promote positive change.

Presenters will address current issues in research, surgery, exercise and self-care for lymphedema. We are confident this will promote further growth and education of both patients and professionals.

The program will include plenary sessions, workshops, poster presentations, an Exhibit Hall, as well as a networking reception on Friday evening.

The plenary sessions will be in English – with simultaneous translation into French. The breakout sessions will have options to choose either English or French workshops.

Keynote speakers confirmed to date include Dr. Tobias Bertsch, a leading obesity and lymphedema expert from the Foeldi Clinic in Germany and Dr. Isabelle Quéré, head of the Vascular Medicine department at the Saint Eloi University Hospital, Montpellier, France and an expert in pediatric lymphedema. The conference agenda will be updated on the CLF conference website as the Scientific Committee finalizes all the speakers and topics.

Delegates

The delegates who will attend the conference include both patients and interdisciplinary health professionals from across Canada and abroad, with an interest in lymphedema.

- Targeted to all primary care as well as specialist health professionals and patients
- Patients with or at risk of lymphedema, their care givers and lymphedema advocates
- Physiotherapists, occupational therapists, registered massage therapists, therapist assistants, social workers, psychologists and nurses
- Oncologists, surgeons, radiologists and general medical practitioners
- Research scientists
- Graduate and medical students
- Compression garment fitters
- Quebec Health Ministry representatives and policy advisors

Expected Numbers

Based on the history of the previous national lymphedema conferences and the number of participants who registered for the most recent provincial Quebec Lymphedema Association conferences, the organizing committee is expecting between 250 – 300 delegates. This number will be a combination of local, provincial, national and international participants. The selected venue, national collaboration, and related functions and activities planned will ensure that the conference is well promoted and attended.

Conference Details

Downtown location: This year's conference will be held at the Omni Hotel Mont-Royal in downtown Montreal. With easy accessibility to the airport and downtown metro, this location will be able to attract both local and out-of-province delegates. Montreal is celebrating its 375th anniversary in 2017, so it's the place to be for fun and activities.

Special physician workshop: We anticipate 20 local physicians will attend a customized workshop, which will help them diagnose and assess lymphedema, offer treatment options and identify local resources.

Poster competition and reception: We are now accepting abstract submissions for our third Canadian poster competition. All submitted poster abstracts will be judged by the Scientific Committee members and showcased at a Friday evening networking reception. Abstracts are encouraged from new as well as experienced presenters and researchers, with topics on a variety of different studies and programs and on all stages of the research process. This is expected to increase the attendance of professional delegates.

Maximum exhibitor viewing opportunities: Feedback from exhibitors and delegates of the 2013 and 2015 CLF national conferences indicated they were happy with the amount of exhibit time allotted. We will have similar timeframes in 2017 to allow delegates sufficient time to visit each exhibit table. To ensure maximum interaction, refreshments will be served within the Exhibit Hall, as well as in the adjoining Atrium.

USB Key memento: Depending on sponsorship funding, we again plan to provide each delegate with a USB key, which will contain the full program, speaker handouts, and the abstract booklet.

What's New this Year?

Nurses' workshop: A special one-day "Chronic Edema and Lymphedema Management for Community Nurses" workshop will run concurrently with the conference on Friday; hosting approximately 20 – 30 nurses. The 7-hour training class is targeted directly at nurses in the community. Upon approval by the Order of Nurses, this module will count toward a new 5-module course planning to be offered by Vodder School International. This first module is entirely in French and will be taught by one of Canada's leading lymphedema experts and clinical doctors, Dr. Anna Towers, of the McGill University Health Centre Lymphedema program and by Robert Harris, Director of Vodder School International. Participants will be encouraged to register for Saturday's conference as well.

Pediatric lymphedema workshop: Led by Dr. Isabelle Quéré, a vascular surgeon in Montpellier, France and an expert in pediatric lymphedema and Dr. Catherine McCuaig, Clinical Director of the Pediatric lymphedema program at Saint-Justine Hospital in Montreal, Quebec, this interactive session will be an opportunity for all lymphedema clinicians and therapists treating children to collaborate and share best practices.

Fashion show: (subject to industry interest) A unique way to showcase various lymphedema products, the conference fashion show will feature volunteer models who will help suppliers demonstrate the vast choices in lymphedema products for day-time and night-time compression. This component of the conference is still in early design stages and subject to industry interest and funding. Let us know if you have ideas, suggestions or an interest in financially supporting and/or participating in this event.

Marketing and Advertising

The Marketing and Communications plan is strategically designed to create maximum awareness among the conference's target audiences and attract delegates throughout Quebec, and across Canada. It will combine offline and online communications networking, including:

Website: As the main source for conference information, the conference website will be the place to find everything delegates need to know about the event. Registration will be solely online, so all delegates will need to navigate through this marketing tool to sign up for the conference. www.canadalymph.ca

Pathways magazine: We have already begun promotion of the conference in Pathways, Canada's national lymphedema magazine (Winter 2017 issue). Additional advertisements will appear in the Spring, Summer and Fall 2017 issues as well. This national magazine has an estimated readership of 15,000 and is a significant branding opportunity for top-level sponsors (logo is included in advertising materials).

Marketing e-blasts: Regular e-blasts sent to CLF and LAQ members and other provincial association contacts will include conference updates. In addition, regular communications will be sent to past and current registered delegates and speakers - keeping target delegates abreast of the latest conference news.

CLF Working Group networks: Through the CLF education, research and partnership working groups, we will be able to reach a large network of health professionals, researchers, educators and students who may not have heard of this event before. This will allow us to promote the conference to a wider audience of health professionals.

Promotional materials: Branded promotional flyers and registration forms will be sent out regularly to all CLF and LAQ members. With two major mail-outs of flyers and posters (the first when registration begins, the second when the early bird deadline is passed) we can reach patients in lymphedema and oncology clinics across Canada. Ask us about opportunities for sponsors to have their logo included in all conference flyers.

External marketing tools: This year's conference will be advertised and promoted in press releases and publications such as Rehab and Community Care magazine (300,000 readership) Montréal enSanté magazine – a health publication distributed among Quebec health professionals (50,000 readership) and through our collaborative conference partners (McGill University Health Centre and Concordia University) and partner organizations such as the Canadian Association of Nurses in Oncology, Canadian Breast Cancer Network, Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation, Quebec Breast Cancer Foundation, Cedars Cancer Foundation and various health related conferences.

Press releases: We will be promoting the event through local as well as national press releases in the weeks leading up to the event.

Social networking: Through Facebook and Twitter we will be able to pass on links and key facts about our conference to an already well-established network of lymphedema supporters and advocates across Canada.

Help Make this Year's Conference a Successful Event

You can assist in increasing awareness of the conference by including conference information in your organization's communications. Consider putting the conference logo and link to our website on your organization's homepage, or attaching e-poster and brochures to emails to your website visitors.

We will be producing a range of printed electronic marketing resources that you can easily include in your own promotional activities. Email the conference organizers for more information on available marketing materials: canadalymph@live.ca
